Summary of Comments:

OBJECT

This chapter (no. 9) on the design of buildings is a crucial in a village design guide. The parish council object to the structure of the text and the weakness of the guidance given and propose amendments.

PART B – Your Response

Papworth Everard

Chapter 4

First two paragraphs

The first paragraph in bold type gives no firm advice and by putting “Materials vary quite widely across the village…” in a primary position will give developers and their designers the impression that any materials could be successfully introduced into Papworth Everard.

The parish council proposes moving the current second paragraph (starting “Ermine Street and…”) to the start of the text, as it gives a positive message and contains guidance. And we propose demoting the current opening paragraph to second place.

The parish council very much supports the guidance contained in paragraph 9.1.

The road name ‘Chapel Lane’ in the current second paragraph and in paragraph 9.3 is incorrect and should be amended to read: ‘Church Lane’.

Fig 21 Caption

All the original wards and other buildings at Papworth Hospital were constructed of brick. Therefore, the parish council does not understand why the wording “unusual in this context for their use”… of red brick. We suggest the words quoted here are wording quoted here is deleted. If a contrast is being made between the red brick of the original buildings and the modern materials used on buildings of more recent construction, this should be made clear.
